Simple Versus Compound Interest

What is the difference between simple and compound interest and does it really matter?

There are various methods for computing interest. Do you know what the disparity is between them over time?

Quantitative concepts and skills
Simple Interest (Arithmetic Growth)
Compound Interest (Geometric Growth)
Graphing

PREVIEW

Simple interest is an example of arithmetic growth where the amount of interest generated each term is constant, based on only the starting amount. Compound interest is an example of geometric, or exponential, growth where the amount of interest generated each term increases because it is based on both the starting amount and previously earned interest.

Slides 3 & 4 have you setting up your worksheet and formatting your cells

Slides 5-9 have you computing simple and compound interest for a set period of time and interest rate, and then graphing the results. Slides 5 & 6 go through the simple interest calculation. Slides 6 & 7 go through the compound interest calculation. Slide 7 asks you to graph the results and slide 8 asks you to add trend lines to the graph. For Slides 5 & 6, you need to embed the interest calculations within the cell equations of your spreadsheet.
